ORDER-IN-APPEAL

This appeal has been filed by M/s. Gujarat Energy Transmission Corporation Ltd., Construction Division, Visnagar Road, Mehsana (hereinafter referred to as "the appellants") against the Order-in-Original number 45/AC/ST/MEH/17-18 dated 21.03.2018 (hereinafter referred to as "the impugned order") passed by the then Assistant Commissioner of Central GST, Mehsana Division (hereinafter referred to as "the adjudicating authority").

2. Brief facts of the case are that the appellants were holding Service Tax Registration number AABCG4029RSD053 under the categories of "Erection, Commissioning and Installation Service, Works Contract Service, Rent-a-cab Service, Security & Detective Agency Service etc. During the course of audit, it was noticed that the appellants had short paid Service Tax under the categories of Manpower Supply Services and Legal Consultancy Service under reverse charge mechanism and Rent-a-cab Service under partial reverse charge mechanism during the periods.

3. Thus, a show cause notice dated 13.04.2017 was issued to the appellants which was adjudicated by the adjudicating authority, vide the impugned order. The adjudicating authority, vide the impugned order, confirmed the demand of Service Tax of ₹47,679/- under Section 73 and asked the appellants to pay interest under Section 75 of the Finance Act, 1994. The adjudicating authority also imposed penalty under Section 78 of the Finance Act, 1994 amounting to ₹47,679/-.

4. Being aggrieved, the appellants have filed the present appeal on the grounds that the adjudicating authority has erred in law in confirming the Service Tax demanded. They argued that as per Point of Taxation Rule, 2011; in case of payment of Service Tax under reverse charge mechanism, point of taxation, for payment of Service Tax, would be the date of payment to the contractors by the service receiver. The books of accounts are being prepared by the company on accrual basis which amounts to the difference in value as per books of account vis-à-vis Service Tax return. Further, the appellants were not availing Cenvat credit of Service Tax paid on the input services. Hence, the cost of services as per the book value is inclusive of Service Tax whereas the value shown in the Service Tax return was the taxable value on which Service Tax was payable.

5. A personal hearing in the matter was held on 25.07.2018 and Shri Dhanesh C. Bagthariya, Chartered Accountant, appeared for the same on behalf of the appellants. He reiterated the contents of grounds of appeal and requested to set aside the impugned order.

6. I have carefully gone through the facts of the case on records, appeal memorandum and submissions made by the appellants at the time of personal hearing. To begin with, I find that there has been a delay occurred in filing the appeal by the appellants. The impugned order was issued on 21.03.2018 and the appellants have filed the appeals on 28.05.2018 claiming in their appeal application that they have received the impugned order on 27.03.2018. However, I find that the appeals are delayed by 9 days only and therefore, I condone the delay and proceed to decide the case on merit.

7. Now, I come to the issue that is whether the appellants are liable to pay Service Tax amounting to ₹47,679/-, along with interest and penalty, or otherwise. In their grounds of appeal, the appellants argued that the adjudicating authority did not verify the fact that the books of accounts were prepared by the appellants on accrual basis and the difference has come out due to this issue. This sounds to be mere afterthought on the part of the appellants as their documents were thoroughly checked by the audit team during the course of audit as well as the adjudicating authority while arbitrating the case. Had this been actually the case, then the matter would have been discussed in the impugned order. I find, from the impugned order, that neither the appellants have tabled this issue and nor the adjudicating authority countered it. Thus, it seems that "preparation of books of accounts on accrual basis" was not at all an issue during the course of adjudication. The issue has cropped up only at the appellate stage. Further, the argument of the appellants is not justified by any coherent documentary evidence. Therefore, I reject the argument of the appellants considering it as mere postscript. The appellants further argued that they were not availing Cenvat credit of Service Tax paid on input services and hence, the cost of services as per book value is inclusive of Service Tax whereas, the value shown in the Service Tax return was taxable value i.e. without Service Tax. This is again another afterthought on the part of the appellants. Did they produce in evidence before the audit team or the adjudicating authority in support of their claim? Did they at all inform the adjudicating authority about the issue? If at all this is the case, then why they did not submit documentary evidence before me to clarify their claim?

8. On the basis of the above, I understand that the appellants had received manpower supply services, legal services and rent-a-cab service and short paid Service Tax arising out of it under Reverse Charge Mechanism. Had there been a genuine confusion on their part, they would have failed to pay Service Tax on the entire value of the services received. This shows their intention to be mala fide. A confusion regarding taxability of a certain service should pertain to the entire value of the service and not a part of that. This is sufficient enough to establish that their intention was to evade payment of Service Tax as long as the department does not out. Had there been no departmental auditing of their documents, the issue would have remained undetected and the appellants would have continued with the said practice of short-payment of Service Tax on various services. Moreover, the appellants have not produced any documentary evidence to show that the matter was agitated or referred to the Central Excise department or the ministry. They are a Public Sector Unit and expected to behave and conduct in a more responsible and transparent manner. Thus, this is enough to establish suppression in the said act of the appellants. In view of the above, I consider that the adjudicating authority has very rightly confirmed the demand of Service Tax amounting to ₹47,679/- along with interest and penalty under the Finance Act, 1994.

9. In view of above discussions, I up held the impugned order passed by the adjudicating authority and reject the appeal filed by the appellants.

10. अपीलकर्ता द्वारा दर्ज की गई अपील का निपटारा उपरोक्त तरीके से किया जाता है।

10. The appeals filed by the appellant stand disposed off in above terms.
